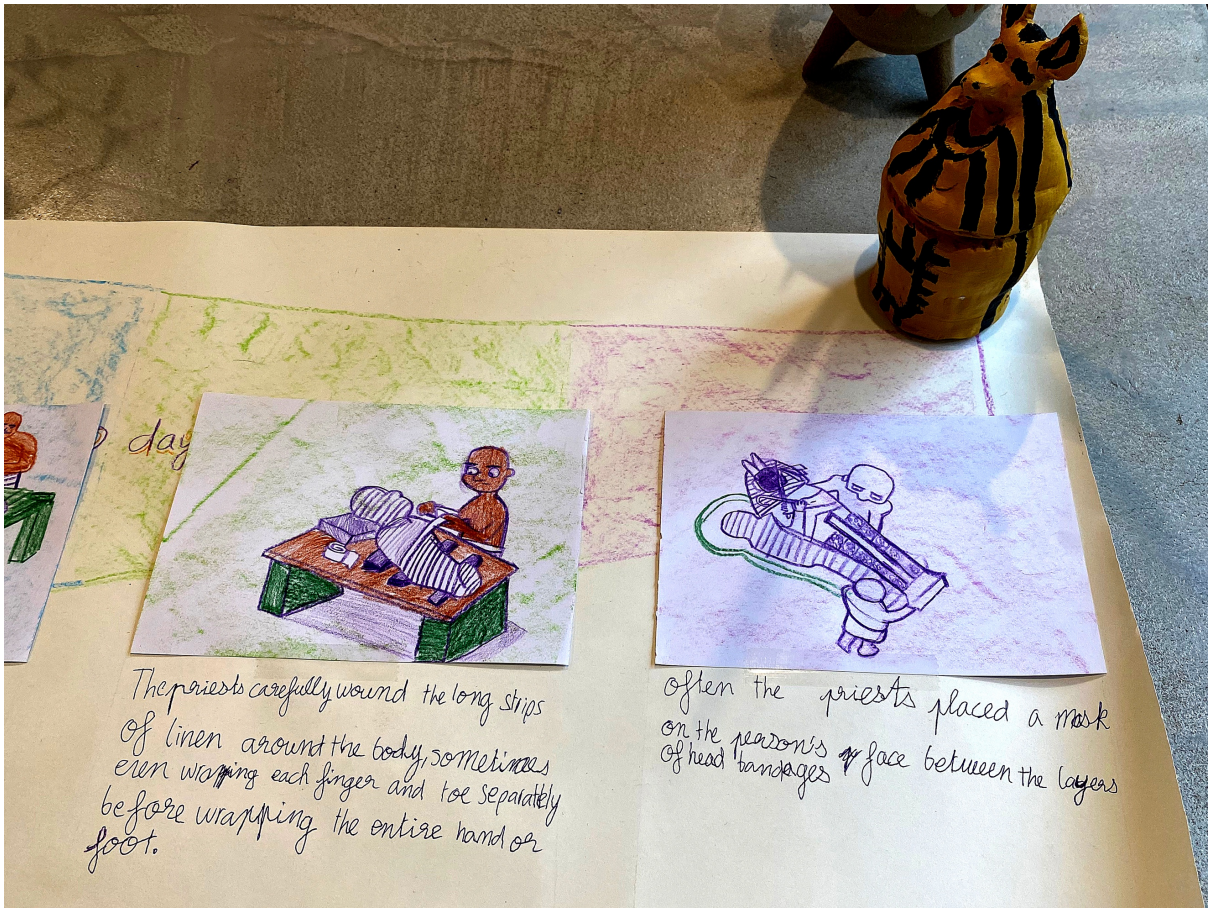
The Mummification: a 70 day process
1
2
3
4

Removal of all internal parts that might decay rapidly.
heart
The embalmers next removed all moisture by covering the body with natron.



The priests carefully wound the long strips of linen around the body, sometimes even wrapping each finger and toe separately before wrapping the entire hand or foot.
often the priests placed a mask on the person's face between the layers of head bandages